Bonus Rumors Take Fresh

Concern on Announcement

Of Early Action.

NEW YORK. March 23—Most bonds held firmly around yesterday's price levels, but business today lacked the briskness that was exhibited in virtually every department of this market yesterday. Exhibitions of fregularity in stocks on the other side of the floor doubtless spread some gloom, but bond houses were far more anxious over this afternoon's outcome of the bonds bill at Washington, Bonus rumors have so long hung over the bond market that recent developments had aroused little comment, but it gave fresh concern today with announcements that action would be taken late in the afternoon. Libertys were firm again around the new high levels established yesterday, but were not able to improve their position. NOBODY ADMIRES A STOUT WOMAN.

Foreigns were slightly firmer, where significant changes were shown at all, but trading in that group fell off. Today's drop in the German mark to a new record of 39-100ths of a cent had no appreciable effect on quotations for the European governmental bonds listed here.
